

Food & Wine: Thanksgiving

By Tom Marquardt and Patrick Darr

Beaujolais

Although nouveau is a very successful marketing gimmick, it's the 50 percent of beaujolais consumed during the rest of the year that deserves the attention.

Immensely interesting, was the Henry Fessy beaujolais cru wine that we tasted.

Last year Louis Latour purchased Henry Fessy, a producer of wines from all 10 of the beaujolais crus as well as a beaujolais villages wine.

The Henry Fessy Fleurie 2007 is very pinot noir-like with a cherry/berry nose and flavors along with interesting, earthy, mocha notes.

