

The Washington Post

THIS $15 GAMAY WILL GO GREAT WITH WHAT'S ON THE GRILL

By: Dave McIntyre, Washington Post
August 19, 2017

“How to wash down the end-of-summer grilling season? With gamay, of course. The red grape of Beaujolais makes terrific wines with great fruit flavors, a medium body ideal for summer (with a slight chill) and a hint of smoke that echoes that aroma from the grill. Here are two delicious wines from gamay, a Beaujolais cru from Moulin-a-Vent and an unusual one from a bit farther north in Burgundy, where pinot noir reigns supreme. We also have a lovely Sicilian white wine, a delightful fizzy prosecco and a terrific bargain chardonnay. Good times.

GREAT VALUE

Henry Fessy

Domaine de la Pierre, Moulin-a-Vent 2015

Beaujolais, France, $19

An excellent Beaujolais (gamay) from an outstanding vintage, this lovely wine offers aromas and flavors of smoky cherries, wild herbs and a cool summer evening. ABV: 13.5 percent.

Distributed by M. Touton: Available in the District at Burka's Wine & Liquor, Capital City Wine & Spirits, Eye Street Cellars, Rodman's.”

HENRY FESSY
CRUS DU BEAUJOLAIS